GUISE CASTLE

Allée Maurice Duton • 02120 GUISE • 03 23 61 11 76 chateaudeguise@clubduvieuxmanoir.fr

From the Medieval castle, dominated by its keep, the Dukes of Guise built one of Northern Europe's largest fortresses in the 16th century, a stronghold which was later to attract the attention of Vauban. Bombed during the First World War, the castle then served as a dumping site for a septic tank engineer and almost disappeared. Fortunately, in 1952, a young local named Maurice Duton decided to save the castle and founded the Club du Vieux Manoir, a youth organisation who to this day organise work camps and activities to bring the castle back to life!

A handful of local farmers and livestock breeders keep this small village of 160 inhabitants alive. The Association 'Parfondeval's Friends' brings this small 160-inhabitants village truly alive.
